

FIND BODY IN TANK CAR AT NEW LENOX

Half-submerged in several inches of gasoline, the body of a man identified from cards in his pockets as that of Peter Maciasz, Wayne, Mich., was found Saturday morning in a tank car at Steele, a railroad junction near New Lenox.

The car, billed as an empty gas tank, left Wayne presumably on March 2nd. The date, together with the fact that the body was frozen, caused Deputy Corner Kircher of Will County to believe he had been dead since last Tuesday. He apparently fell thru the narrow passage at the top of the car.

Death resulted from inhaling the poisonous gas fumes, which made it necessary to use gas masks in recovering the body at the Michigan Central yards at Joliet, where the car was immediately transferred.

Bruises about the head were not sufficient to substantiate a murder theory first advanced, according to the deputy coroner.

Within a half hour after the body had been found at Steele by Howard Ayers, a car inspector for the Wabash railroad, the car was enroute to the Joliet yards on orders from D. E. Riegel, agent for the Michigan Central, in the hope that the man was not yet dead.

Efforts to place a rope about the body to hoist it thru the opening were halted by the gas fumes and a call was sent to the city fire department for gas masks. One of the firemen was lowered into the car with a gas mask in place and succeeded in fastening hoisting ropes to the man's clothing.

A heavy duty derrick lifted the rigid body thru the 18 inch opening in the car.

Within a few inches of his outstretched arms were found a flashlight, railroad keys, and a lunch bucket. Agent Riegel and Detective Ryan of the M. C. railroad express the belief that Maciasz, apparently 28 or 30 years of age, was employed as a car inspector and messages were sent to Wayne to establish his identity.

Personal effects found with the body included some $2.00 in change, several religious tracts, an automobile registration card for Michigan and letters from a Detroit automobile supply firm. The car was billed from Wayne on March 1, but left the following day, consigned to the Wabash railroad at Steele. It had passed thru Jackson, Mich., on Mar. 2nd.

The fact that the cover usually in place on tank cars, was open and shifted to one side caused inspector Ayers to investigate when making his rounds at the junction Saturday morning. A special crew was sent to remove the car to Joliet.

The dead man was dressed in heavy leather coat, leather mittens and heavy soled rubber overshoes, commonly worn by railroad trainmen. He was about five feet, nine inches in height, weighing between 170 and 180 pounds and of light complexion.

Chicago Realtor
Gets Options on
New Lenox Farms

There has been a considerable boom in real estate in the eastern part of Will County the past year because of the electrification plans of the Illinois Central railroad, but in the last month the expansion has been along the Lincoln highway near New Lenox and Frankfort, near the Rock Island railroad main line. It is reported that the Rock Island plans to electrify between Chicago and Joliet.

John B. Anderson, of the Oliver Realty Company of Joliet, has acquired options on 3,600 acres of land on all sides of New Lenox. Mr. Anderson is acting with Arthur T. McIntosh, Cook county realtor.

The land under option is all near New Lenox, the Rock Island railroad and Lincoln highway. The options are good until July 1, 1926.

The property under option will be developed jointly by the Oliver Realty company and Arthur T. McIntosh, Chicago sub-divider.

A deal was completed the past week whereby Mr. McIntosh purchased 124 acres of land near New

C. Scheer Makes
Explanation

Editor News-Bulletin:
Referring to the article "Suit Against Tinley School Directors Ends" published in your issue of March 4, I wish to make this explanation:

It is true that meetings were held without the presence of Mr. Goebel but Dr. Van Wormer told the writer that he called Mr. Goebel to the meetings. He may have been advised not to appear, although he was present at the last meeting held before the election of April 14, 1923 when the proposed new site was voted upon by the Board. Mr. Goebel voted in the negative.

This site which we chose in accordance with Section 119 of the School Law, we considered the best in the village, but it was strongly opposed by the nearby residents.

Had our plans carried we would now have ample play grounds for the children and a fine well equipped modern school building.

As to the so called "pretended meetings", Mr. Goebel being absent, we proceeded to transact business as a quorum which we had a legal right to do.

We had been elected directors with the express understanding that a new school building should be erected. The old building was unsanitary and wholly inadequate to the number of pupils, some of them having to be cared for elsewhere. The parents were becoming insistent in their demands for a new building and justly so.

Proceeding at once to carry on the work for which we had been elected to office, as there was no time to lose, we called these several meetings.

Special elections were held and the questions "Shall a new building be erected (Jan. 13, 1923) and shall bonds be issued for the purpose of building a new school? (Feb. 17, 1923)" were submitted to the people and were carried by a large majority.

Mr. Harper's statement that the money was not voted with which to build is not correct.

Previous to the election of April 14, 1923, we had made and signed a contract with Mr. Beck to draw plans and specifications and superintend the erection of the school building but postponed writing money orders until after election.

We supposed, as is usually the case when a new man is elected to office that the outgoing member had a legal right to transact business for ten days or until the new Board was organized and we proceeded to act accordingly.

To my knowledge there was no intention of cheating the district.

Wm. Kampe Out For Supervisor

Town politics are getting quite warm in Frankfort township. This week a surprise was sprung when Wm. Kampe of Frankfort announced himself a candidate for the office of supervisor in opposition to Wm. Lankenau, the present incumbent who is also seeking re-election both rivals being on the Republican ticket. Much interest is attached to the result of the town caucus to be held the latter part of this month.

Lenox from John B. Anderson, and 140 acres of land from Mary Francis Burns, of Columbus, Ohio, for a total cost of $36,290. Title to this property was taken by Alma C. Hansen for Mr. McIntosh. This property is being sub-divided and offered for sale.

George A. Barr, Joliet attorney, purchased a 74 acre tract from Alice H. Patterson of Chicago for $300 an acre. The property is immediately west of New Lenox on the Lincoln Highway and south of the Rock Island tracks.

George Barnes of Mokena sold 80 acres in Sec. 7, Frankfort township to Peter Mancke for $17,723.

Herman Lorenz sold two 40 acre tracts to August Hauck for an aggregate price of $14,000. One parcel, the s. w. quarter of the n. w. quarter of sec. 7, Frankfort township, sold for $9,000. The other piece, the consideration being $5,000, is the north half of the n. e. quarter, sec. 12, New Lenox township.

R. I. Announces
New Bureau

The Rock Island Lines announce establishment of a new department—the "Vacation Travel Service Bureau" in charge of Mr. D. M. Wootton, formerly with one of the large national tour companies, latterly City Passenger Agent for the Rock Island, New York City.

While "personally conducted" excursions will be operated on frequent dates to vacation territory reached by the Rock Island, the outstanding feature of this new service will be the sale of individual tour tickets on the "Go as you please" all expense plan. Rock Island representatives everywhere will extend personal service in carrying out details.

This expansion of passenger department activities is a further illustration of changing conditions in modes and methods of passenger transportation in the United States. Efforts of the new organization will be chiefly directed to creative methods—increasing the attractiveness of railroad journeys by relieving the traveler of all care and responsibility, not only, as in the past, in connection with rail transportation but including accommodations at the journey's end to suit every purse—board and lodging at hotels, boarding houses, ranches, cottages or camps; automobile trips and all the incidental features of a care free outing. In short, a complete travel service.

It is notable that this program stresses the advantages of combination railroad automobile tours, and that itineraries are being arranged to take full advantage of this feature, opening up new and attractive territory not heretofore conveniently available to the traveling public.

The Young Peoples Society of the Mokena, St. John, Evangelical church will hold a St. Patrick social next Thursday night in the church parlors which will be decorated in white and blue. There will be various games and a luncheon.

MOKENA
M. E. CHURCH NOTES.

Glen T. Beatty, Pastor.
Sunday school at 10:30 A. M.
Luncheon worship at 7:00 P. M.

The Sunday school's Easter program will be presented Easter morning during the regular 10:30 hour. The program will consist of numbers from all the classes.

At the meeting of the official board last Sunday night, which was held despite the bad weather, the reports showed satisfactory progress in all departments. Our Sunday school has enjoyed an increased average attendance. The finances of the church are very good and our congregations have been gradually increasing and very responsive.

The Official Board was good enough to grant Rev. Beatty the privilege of accepting an invitation from the Central Park M. E. church in Chicago, to hold pre-Easter services. He will preach at that church every night the week preceding Easter, his first service being held on Palm Sunday night.

The church will have no service Palm Sunday, thus affording an opportunity for a joint service with St. John's Evangelical church as a welcome to Rev. Cramer, the new pastor of that church. We feel certain that our people will welcome a chance to hear Mr. Cramer.

We were very proud of the large number who were in our evening congregation last Sunday. The pastor will preach next Sunday evening on the subject: "Evangelism—What? Why? How?"

We have classes for all people in our Church School, and urge that you will come where you will not only be helped, but where you will help. There is no work more important than the religious education of our children.

The community Men's Bible Class will meet at the home of Mr. Ona McGovney next Saturday evening at 7:30 P. M. All men are urged to join in these Bible discussions. The discussions are non-sectarian. Every man is giving his views upon those parts of the Bible studied, and the meetings are proving interesting and helpful to all.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Koehler and family, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Healy and family, Mrs. Lizzie Moriarity, Miss Grace Moriarity, and Rev. Glen T. Beatty, attended the Missionary program given by the New Lenox M. E. church last Friday evening. They reported a very splendid evening of fellowship and missionary education.

St. John's Evangelical Church
Rev. W. J. Cramer will be installed at 10:30 at the Sunday morning service. Sermon subject: "The Church's Great Business and Power."

BOOST OAK LAWN

Oak Lawn is going to boom. That is what they say. We will have fifty fine new buildings up before the first of May. We hope it isn't all bubbles, or castles in the air. We are pushing things right along, and bound we will get there; We have fine streets and sidewalks. And our railroad fare is just, But if you have not got the fare, Walk it, or take the bus. And here's our Mayor, John Emery, Who works with might and main; He has the whole town going, And they're building over night. He was presented with a diamond Star, it was beautiful and grand, The workmanship on it Was the finest in the land.

FINDS MAN IN MANGER

Chas. Marston, hired man for John Bettenhausen residing east of Mokena had the shock of his life Tuesday evening when he stuck his fork into some hay in the manger and struck an object and at the same time heard a scream of pain. Investigating he found a young man in the hay. He brought him to Mokena and turned him over to Deputy Walter Fisher. Later it was found that the stranger was an escaped patient from Kankakee. He was then taken to Joliet and turned over to the county authorities.

Oak Lawn News

Miss Dorothy Elvridge is home from the Burnside hospital but still has her foot and leg bandaged.

Mr. Frank Farrell has left for Phoenix Arizona, Monday evening, March 8th and will not return until he regains his strength.

An auction sale was held at the community Clubhouse Monday evening March 8th. The property of the late Mr. and Mrs. William O'Brien was auctioned off.

The site for the proposed new Community Clubhouse, has been found and will be built directly across the street from the Oak Lawn Grammar School. Just how soon the Clubhouse will be started and finished no one knows.

St. Gerald's Church of Oak Lawn will hold a Bunco party and dance in the basement of the church St. Patrick's Evening, March 17th. This will be open to the public.

The Oak Lawn Community Club will give their next dance in the Auditorium of the Oak Lawn Grammar School on the night of April 10th. The music will be furnished by Chapman's Orchestra of Chicago. Don't forget the date.

On Wednesday afternoon March 17th, a Luncheon and Bunco party will be given at the home of Mrs. John T. Emery, for the benefit of Byron Conclave, a charge of fifty cents will be asked. Every one is welcome to come.

The Thursday Circle was entertained at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Gaven, March 4th. The usual game of Bunco was played and sandome prizes were awarded to the winners, Mrs. Theres, Mrs. Eichler, Mrs. Rowan, Mrs. DeRuntz Mrs. Gaven, and Mrs. Salibar. Refreshments were served "Oh Boy" the Strawberry shortcake sure was good. The ladies were pleased to welcome Mrs. Eichler, Mrs. O'Connor, and Mrs. Ryan as members of the Club, also a visitor from Chicago Mrs. Jordan, Mrs. Laudahl and Mrs. Philbin were ill and unable to attend. We hope they will be with us at our next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Hablas Mar. 18th.

Little Miss La Vern Ehrat, 7 years old, danced at the Roseland State Theatre, at 110th and Michigan, Monday evening March 8th. She made a big hit too, we'll say.

Miss Reba Elvridge has taken the position of secretary in the Oak Lawn Trust and Savings Bank, succeeding Mrs. Joseph Ryan.

Mrs. Jennie Bohne is on the sick list.

Mrs. E. Vander Berghen, has been ill with the grippe.

Miss Gertrude Lancoble has been home from work the past week with the grippe.

The relatives and friends of Mrs. Ida Reik gathered at her home Sunday for a dinner and a jolly good time, celebrating her birthday.

Mrs. John Hopkins is out on the street again after her long illness.

Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock the Oak Lawn Fire Department was called out, due to a fire in Elmore's little real estate office, at 79th St., After a very short time the fire was extinguished. The roof was damaged considerable.

At 2:00 a. m. Tuesday morning, Mayor Emery was aroused and a fire was reported at Kaup's hot house, 56th and 87th sts. Mr. Emery and Motorman John Cleveland, pulled the fire engine out and sounded the siren and the Volunteers came forth. The fire caused a total loss, the water had to be put on the other buildings, thus causing it to freeze on the plants, but just one section of the glass house was lost.

We surely have to give Irvin and Freddie Behrends credit for being in the middle of the fight and helping to see the thing through. Behrends have not missed riding on the fire engine since it was purchased for the village. Motorman John Cleveland had his shoulder wrenched under the weight of the hose, but will recover very soon we hope.

At 5 o'clock in the morning the weary firemen returned home. And may we add our thanks for the work and effort of Mr. Ernie Bruback.

MRS. JOHN BIEDENKOPF
CELEBRATES 82nd BIRTHDAY

Mrs. John Biedenkopf will long have fond remembrances of her 82nd birthday which was celebrated March 7th at her home in Worth. Two daughters, five sons, grand children, great-grand children and many friends being present. There were 43 in all. A delicious supper was served and enjoyed by all. She received many beautiful plants, bouquets and other presents.

DAMOAN THE FOX

SYNOPSIS.—Traveling by canoe on the Mississippi, on his way to Biloxi, in the early days of the settlement of Louisiana, William Brampton, English spy, known to Indians and settlers as the "White Indian," sees a Natchez Indian post a declaration of war against the French. For his own purposes, he hastens to Biloxi to carry the news to Bienville, French governor. Brampton meets an old friend, Joe Labrador, Indian half-breed, who warns him Bienville has threatened to hang him as a spy. Brampton refuses to turn back. He falls in with Jules and Basile Mattor, on their way to Biloxi to secure wives from a ship, the Maitre, bringing women from France. At Biloxi Brampton protects a woman from a sergeant's brutality. She tells him she is Claire Dahlgarde, picked up in a raid in Paris. Evidently well bred and educated, she is a mystery to Brampton. He intervenes to prevent a man, English, known as "Old Six Fingers," following her to New Orleans. A Frenchman, Francois Narbonne, slightly demented by stories he has heard of the riches of the New World, introduces himself. Bienville accuses Brampton of treachery, but the latter secures a respite from death by revealing the Natchez declaration of war. He is to await the arrival of a former companion, Damoan the Fox, who will exonerate or condemn him. Damoan has documents proving Brampton an English spy. Brampton receives a message from Claire begging him to help her reach the English settlement. Brampton trusts Narbonne with a note to Claire promising to meet her at New Orleans. He plans his escape.

The conversation at the gate was being resumed. The shrill voices of the women were being answered with broad retorts. To Jules I murmured: "I must be at Pascagoula bay some time tomorrow."

"H—! It must be the fever stewing your brains, monsieur!"

"Softly, you fool! Here are five pistols in my hand. Feel of them. They are for you if you do as I say."

"Five pistols! Permit me to be blessed by touching them! Nom de Dieu! It is true."

"Then you will take them and help me?"

"God pity poor fishermen! We do not dare. Blood for blood!" And he shivered.

"I will try the hot drink and the sweat." Then under my breath: "Who is to know? You have been refused women. You go aboard your packet and start for Pontchartrain. When beyond the island you turn and make for Pascagoula bay."

"But monsieur will be seen entering my boat and leaving with us. Else that dog of a sergeant will shoot us all before we can raise the sail," murmured Mattor, his fingers jerking convulsively as they touched the pistols. "I shall not go with you. You will enter your boat alone."

"You are free to go when and where you will. They will see you start back to Lake Pontchartrain. When out of sight you will go to Pascagoula. You will carry these five pistols with you."

"Ah le bon Dieu!"

"And you will fish in the bay until sunset tomorrow, waiting for me to come overland and join you. You will watch for my smoke on the shore and come in close. I will hold both arms high above my head. I will steal a canoe or swim for it. If you see my smoke but do not see me you will know you can wait until dark before taking me off, thus avoiding any risk of being seen helping me."

"Then to Pascagoula!" whispered Mattor. "My soul is frightened. An eye for an eye, says his—"

"Then you will receive ten more pistols."

"Plunge me into hell if that much hard money is to be found there!" he gasped. "Good! I will take this money. We will go to Pascagoula with you. Monsieur will bring the rest of the money?"

"I have it with me now. Remember your sailing directions; make for the west, then double back and go to fishing in Pascagoula bay. Watch for me to come before sundown."

"Mais oui! And if you do not come by sundown?"

"Then sail back here with your fish and keep the money."

"Monsieur has won my heart. I speak for my son as for myself. I tell you again, monsieur, it is not for me to say if you have fever, or are sick from eating poisoned fish. It is no use to talk about it. You are better off in the house. We must go. They refuse as the sweet company of women. They have a house filled with women, and they refuse one for Jules Mattor, a brave pioneer for France—"

"And one for Basile Mattor, his father's brave son," interpolated the youth.

"No more of that talk, you old devil. You and your worthless son must leave the fort. Remember, if you are seen near the women's houses you will get a brace of musket balls," broke in Sergeant Suarez's voice; and I realized the Mattors were cunning as foxes and had sensed his silent approach and had shifted the conversation to blind him.

"Sacre!" hissed Jules, turning and stamping to the gate.

Mumbling and grumbling, father and son gained the shore. For some time after they had vanished from sight I caught fragments of their oaths, and their solemn vows never to enter the gulf again.

Extinguishing the candle I threw myself on my robes in the corner and waited. Outside the soldiers chatted lazily, and speaking with much freedom now that the governor was not present to overhear.

Gradually those not on guard surrendered to the claims of sleep and went to the barracks. I crawled to the window and peered out. The torch at the gate was extinguished. Within a rod of my window was the figure of a man. Near the door was another. As they occasionally moved about I heard the rattle of their accoutrements, and knew that despite my claim of being ill the sergeant had posted guards. I was wondering if the back of the house was also under surveillance when a new note caused the two men outside to steal toward each other, whispering excitedly. A woman had laughed outside the gate. "She has left the house, Gaston," chuckled the fellow nearest my window.

"Morbleu! They have all left the house! Hear the magpies! What fools! Suarez will be hearing them. Take a look at monsieur through the window while I run down to quiet them."

I stole back to my corner and threw myself on my robes and began an excellent imitation of a man muttering in his sleep, or while slightly delirious. As I mumbled and tossed about I could discern a vague shape at the window and knew the fellow was listening greedily. He withdrew, and I crossed the room. His mate was back from quieting the women, and I was in time to hear the sentinel say: "Fever or fish, the devil has him in a black spell. He needs a guard no more than a dead Natchez. Come on!"

The two stole toward the gate together. There was some muffled laughter and a guard's sibilant warning for prudence, then the telltale sounds grew fainter and I knew they had withdrawn from the gate. Here was my chance to escape from the fort and make for the rendezvous at Pascagoula bay. I leaned from the window and listened for further sounds, then ducked back as a figure stole through the gate. Cursing the sentinel for not staying with his mates, I hastily withdrew to my robes and threw myself down.

I loosened a pistol and lay on my back and through half-closed lids gazed toward the door. The room suddenly became illumined as the heavy door, with scarcely a sound, swung open.

A lighted candle was advancing over the threshold. I closed my lids to mere slits. With soft padding steps a man swept across the room and seated himself at the table. I heard him sigh deeply, as if contented. I turned my head ever so little until my gaze rested on his moccasins. They were of Shawano make. His leggings, I next observed, were much travel-stained. I increased the field of vision until I was staring at the fringed skirts of his hunting shirt, then the sleeves, much worn; and the long brown hands idly resting on the table.

My heart tightened as I watched the hands and noticed their peculiar trick of interlocking the fingers and pulling them apart. I was face to face with fate. The coming of Bienville was all that was needed to complete the situation. I was gazing on the sardonic profile of Damoan the Fox.

CHAPTER V

The False Trail.

He shifted his position so as almost to face me, and, supposing I was about to be discovered, I began drawing a pistol. He had seen nothing in my dark corner, however, and was merely uneasy.

He twisted nervously in his chair and darted his keen gaze about the room, taking time with the window and closed door. Next he drew from his belt his cassette, a pique, or iron tomahawk, and threw it on the table with a bang. It had interfered with his comfort. Then he slumped back and folded his arms and became motionless as an Indian in ambush.

As I watched for an opportunity to take him unawares he suddenly leaped to his feet and snatching up the ax and candle glided to the door opening into his excellency's sleeping room and threw it open and peered inside. Obviously his woods instinct was urging him to be on guard, and he was puzzled that the warning should be so strong and insistent here in the home of the governor. He walked back to the table slowly, his dark face drawn into ferocious lines, and clattered the ax on the board, and repeated his trick of continually darting side glances—a trick learned in the forest, when any tree might conceal a foe. His attitude proved he was conscious of being watched and that the affair must soon come to a head.

He was now standing with his back to me, and I came to my feet noiselessly and stole to the table. I think it must have been some tremor in the puncheon floor that warned him he was no longer alone; for he faced about, his hand at his belt where his ax had hung.

For half a minute we stood there, staring at each other; I with my fingers resting on the table and touching the handle of the French ax, and he with one hand clutching the empty ax-loop. I will always give him credit for being a most consummate actor. As if he had just recognized me he came forward, both slim dark hands outstretched, and his mellow voice joyously crying:

"My friend! My friend! Ah, what good luck! My old comrade here in Biloxi. But my medicine is strong!"

My empty hands met his, and we stood there, smiling into each other's faces.

"Damoan! How anxiously I have waited for your coming. I was asleep in the corner," I cried.

"And how much swifter I would have come had I known you were here!" he fondly replied. "I reached the gate. The soldiers were at one side, too busy with some women to see me. I came here and find a candle, and enter. I feel the spirit of my friend. Then, behold! Like some apparition you are standing behind me!"

My eyes were staring at the right breast of his hunting shirt, where a slight bulge suggested a packet of papers. The forced cordiality of his black eyes could not be sustained. Deep in the depths of his gaze twinkled murderous little devils. There was something in my tense staring that caused his gaze to drop, to see if his hunting shirt was open. And I sensed a slight tightening of his iron-like fingers, and I increased my own pressure. I was the heavier, but he possessed a panther's quickness which I never saw equaled in any man. With a scream of rage he threw aside all pretense and attempted to jerk me to my knees. I tore my left hand free and smeared his cap down over his mouth, at the same time thrusting my foot behind his heel and hurling him back across the table. Butting my head into his chest, I got the neck of his shirt between my teeth and tore it open. Then he knew what I was after, and seized my left wrist and wrenched it clear of his face. Down went my head again, this time hitting him under the chin and driving his jaws together with a snap, and my fumbling lips found the papers and my teeth closed upon them.

With a muffled howl of rage, he released my wrist and snatched for the papers and took away a handful of my beard instead. His hand followed as I jerked up my head, but now I had him by the wrist. I straightened up a bit and dropped the papers on the floor and kicked them toward the window. He twisted like a snake the instant the pressure was removed, and before I knew it he was face down on the table with his right hand closing about the handle of the tomahawk. I fell on his back and stuffed the cap into his face and tried to catch his right hand and secure the ax.

Avoiding my clutching fingers, he swung the heavy ax up over his shoulder in an attempt to brain me. I dug my head down into the hollow of his left shoulder and received the length of the ax-handle across my back, and secured his wrist.

From the gate came excited cries. "The Englishman is mad with the fever!" yelled a soldier.

Once more I sent the Fox against the table, this time knocking the candle to the floor. I stepped on it, plunging the room into darkness, and, wrenching the ax from him, struck where his head should have been. I hit him, but with the flat side only. Down he went into the upturned table. I dropped on all fours, and as my foot hit the papers I secured them and tucked them into my shirt. A streak of fire, and he had used one of his pistols. I leaped toward the window and hurled the ax in his direction. A snapping of wood told me the ax had smashed a table-leg or the chair. He fired his second pistol, but I was now against the wall, taking care not to pass before the window. I had located my musket and was making ready to fire when the door burst open.

"In here, you cowardly pigs!" yelled the sergeant's voice; and I heard him rush across the floor to where Damoan should be standing.

The sergeant grappled with him, thinking he was I, and a madman to boot, for there was a stamping and strangled outcry, and the Fox was screaming:

"Watch the window! Don't let the English spy escape!"

By this time several soldiers had crowded into the room, all shouting excitedly. As I leaped to the ground and ducked and dodged from side to side a gun crashed in the room behind me, and the clear voice of the Fox was raised in orders for the men to give chase. I reached the gate and there was no one there to oppose my going, which was well, for I passed through with the butt of my musket poised ready for a drive against the first head I could find.

When I crawled up the east slope of the ravine I could tell by the shouting that nearly all the soldiers were searching the shore expecting to find me trying to escape in some boat. Above their foolish confusion rose the mellow voice of the Fox, this time in a peculiar cry, a signal. It was answered from the forest north of the settlement by a long drawn-out war-whoop, which I attributed to some Choctaw. If Damoan had come to Biloxi with a band of Choctaw warriors, and could he set them on my trail, my flight might easily end in a tragedy.

I worked back from the shore to avoid the marsh and held my course through an intuitive sense of direction. Even Damoan the Fox could not follow me through the night unless he could keep near enough to locate me by sound. Naturally I was startled when I heard a noise behind me which was never made by any woods creature. It was as if some one had stepped on a wet roof and had slipped, and all but fallen. Animals do not carry themselves in any such clumsy fashion. My careless tread instantly became cunning, the moccasin feeling out the ground before being allowed to rest. Several times I halted and lay in wait, but whoever was behind me held back.

Had it not been for Mademoiselle Dahlgarde I easily could have made Pensacola, and thence traveled north to Savannah. As it would be dangerous to leave the grove until ready to make the Mattors' packet, I came to a halt and devoted my attention to crying needs—to learn if the careless walker of the night was still on my track, and to find something to eat.

As I had the whole day before me, and as from the grove I could keep watch for Mattor's sail on the bay, I began looking about in hopes of finding some squirrels to knock over with my ax. Many a time in the wood I had remained motionless at the foot of a tree until squirrels and other small creatures mistook me for a stump and played and quarreled about my feet. I seated myself at the foot of an ancient oak to repeat the ruse. Fifteen or twenty minutes I had remained there, motionless; then something as noiseless as a shadow passed by the opposite side of the tree. I began moving around the bole until behind the newcomer.

To my great relief it was an Indian, a Choctaw. He would be going to the Pascagoula's village and would be sure to report any white man he saw. I might be gone before any French soldiers came to look me up, and I might not. This thought sent me back to cover. I remembered that his corn-pouch seemed to be well-filled. Hunger won over discretion, and I stepped from behind the tree and called out to him—"Ale! Halloo."

He stared at me stolidly.

"The White Indian," he said.

I did not recognize him, although I scrutinized him sharply. There were always Indians, strangers to me, coming and going at the French posts, who would remember every white man they saw.

"I am the White Indian, and I am hungry," I said, approaching him. "I will buy your corn."

"It is very good. Melted bear's fat is poured over it," he said, promptly removing the pouch and handing to me.

Just one thing after another.
What is this new peril?

Measuring in Tons

Two men were disputing as to the weight of an inch of rainfall. "I read somewhere that it is 101 tons of water to the acre," said one. "No," said the other, "I'm positive the correct figure is 113 tons." The weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture says that both are right. The rainfall in the first instance was reckoned by the long ton, or 2,240 pounds, the common ton in Great Britain. The long ton is used for some purposes in this country, but the short ton of 2,000 pounds, which gave the second result, is more usual here.

ORLAND

On the evening of Tuesday, March 16th at the school auditorium, the Orland High School will present the three act farce, "The Adventures of Grandpa". The curtain rises at 8:00 p. m. and an entire evening of wholesome fun is promised.

Town politics are getting pretty warm and begin to point to a hot town election on April 6th.

Albert Habenicht, present tax collector has announced himself as a candidate for reelection. Fred Yunker is also in the race for this office. Joseph Creer, present town clerk is also a candidate for reelection to the same office. Martin Smith, assessor is also a candidate for re-election.

Ernest Vogt is preparing to build a new bungalow in Orland this spring.

John Habenicht has booked many orders for excavating work to be done this spring. In addition Mr. Habenicht has also a big demand for black dirt of which he has sold a big amount.

Collector Albert Habenicht has been busy collecting taxes in Tinley Park and Mokena the past week. Many farmers residing in Orland township but who are located nearer to Tinley or Mokena than Orland Park, have gone to these towns to pay their taxes.

Orland M. E. Church Notes

Elmer L. Setterlund, pastor.

Friday March 12th the picture is Jack London's famous story "Adventure".

Sunday March 14th. Bible School at 9:30. Despite the awful weather of last Sunday our Bible School attendance was very good.

Morning worship at 10:30. The first of the pre-Easter sermons entitled "What Does It Mean To Be A Christian?"

Evening service is a very special one. It will be "Boys' Night." A special Boy Scout Troop from Chicago will attend in uniform. Special violin Solo by Mr. Royal Glahn. Mr. Lester Mahaffy of Palos Park will speak. There will be representative Scout officials from both Chicago and Palos Park. Public is cordially invited. Also two reel special Scout moving picture.

On Friday evening March 19th the picture is the much talked of Zane Grey story, "Wanderer of the Wasteland", photographed in natural colors. Also Pathe news reel and Pathe Comedy.

Sunday March 21st. Bible school at 9:30 a. m. Our school is gaining both in attendance and interest. Our objective is 150 in regular attendance. Will you help us reach the goal?

Morning worship at 10:30. The sermon will be the second in the pre Easter Sunday morning services dealing with the Christian life.

Sunday evening will be "An Evening with Ralph Waldo Emerson", illustrated by moving pictures.

Sunday evening March 28th special "Young People's night" under the leadership of Mr. Robert Murdock, formerly of Orland but now of Chicago. Do not miss this service.

At this writing Mr. Albert Loebe is about the same. Mr. John Loebe is gradually gaining in strength but is rather closely confined to his home as yet.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Newton are much better but Mr. Newton reports that the family will be in quarantine for two weeks more.

Mr. Joseph Creer has returned from the hospital but although feeling much better is still confined to his home. He soon hopes to be around again.

Miss Viola Beagley was at church and seems to have recovered from her attack of gripe.

The pastor and Mrs. Ralph Agate have been ill with the gripe for the past few days.

The First Message

"MR. WATSON, come here; I want you!" exclaimed Alexander Graham Bell on March 10, 1876, during an afternoon of experimentation, and over a wire connecting two rooms, the young assistant heard the words,—the first spoken sentence to be so transmitted.

Fifty years have passed. To-day there are 17,000,000 telephones in the United States, giving voice to human need, as Bell's crude transmitter did then. Fire breaks out in the night; law-breakers invade a home; sickness strikes at a family circle. "Come here, I want you," is the summons, and the telephone speeds it on the way. Business of importance demands the decision of one who is on the far side of the continent. "Come here, I want you," is the summons again, and as if by magic, a personality is projected through space, questions are asked, answers given, problems solved—by telephone.

Every telephone call is an echo of the first message. For whether it is the physical presence or the listening ear that is desired, the impulse that lifts the telephone receiver is, "I want you."

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beagley were the guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Neumeyer on Saturday and Sunday March 6th and 7th.

The flu has been very prevalent in and around Orland. The Philip E. Steffen family have all been down with the disease, but are improving at latest reports. They had to keep their store closed for a few days as every member of the family was ill.

Orland is on the eve of a new building boom for this spring. It is understood that new dwellings are to go up in the Wm. Raney subdivision.

Signaling by Drums

In South Africa messages are signaled by means of drums made of bark, the tappings on which can be heard many miles away. It is by this method that the defeat of Sir Redvers Buller at Colenso was made known to natives 60 miles distant in the space of two hours.

Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—The friends of Mrs. Helen M. Kowalczyk of 6819 Hope Avenue were glad to hear that she has regained her health. For quite some time Mrs. Kowalczyk was quite ill and it was impossible for her to work. She took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build her up. After she had started taking it, she wrote to the Pinkham Company as follows: "I certainly boost Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel stronger already and sleep sounder. I am very glad to spread the good news of how it has helped me."

Detroit, Michigan.—"I heard of this medicine through an advertisement in the 'Detroit News' and wrote to Mrs. Grace Gillem, whose letter was published. Then I started taking the Vegetable Compound and got the best results. I used the Sanative Wash, too. I am really happy if I can advise women to take your medicines."

—Mrs. M. E. MURPHY, 12163 Washburn Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Those Agonizing Torturing Pains.

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic stage.

Ask your first-class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces last a long time and, furthermore, if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Solution of Last Week's Puzzle.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Lesson for March 14

THE LAST WORDS OF JESUS
WITH HIS DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT—John 14:1-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—"I am the way, the truth and the life."—John 14:6.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Tells of the Heavenly Home.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Wonderful Promises
of Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-
IC—Jesus Counsels and Confers with His Disciples.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-
IC—Christ's Last Words With His Disciples.

The hopes of the disciples were utterly shattered when Jesus told them about the cross. He had told them that He was going away and they could not follow Him. Their hearts were flooded with grief. He consoled them by—

I. Pointing to the Reunion in the Father's House (vv. 1-3).

1. He Asked Them to Trust in Him Even as God (v. 1).

Faith in the God man Christ Jesus will steady the heart no matter how intense the grief, nor how great the sorrow.

2. He Informed Them That He Was Going to the Father's House in Heaven to Prepare a Home for Them (v. 2).

He assured them that there was abundant room for all. Heaven is an eternal dwelling place. Only those can enter who have made the necessary preparation here.

3. He Assured Them That He Would Come Again and Escort Them to Heaven (v. 3).

Jesus will not wait for His own to come to Him, but will come and call forth from the grave those who have died and transform living believers and take them all to be with Himself in the heavenly home forever more.

II. Revealing the Way to the Father's House (vv. 4-11).

Jesus informed the disciples that they knew the place and the way to which He was going. To this Thomas interposed a doubt, in answer to which Christ asserts that He is—

1. The Way to God (v. 6).

He is more than a mere guide or teacher; He is the way itself. He is the door of the sheep fold; yea, the very entrance to the tree of life.

2. The Truth (v. 6).

He is not merely the teacher, but the Truth incarnate. In His incarnation the spiritual and material worlds were united. Therefore, every line of truth, whether spiritual or material, converges in Him. No one can ever have the real truth about anything who does not have Christ. In Him especially we have the truth about God. To pretend to know God, while at the same time rejecting Jesus Christ is utter folly. Only as Christ reveals God can man know Him (John 1:18).

3. The Life (v. 6).

Christ is not merely the giver of life, but He is the essence of life. Only those who receive Christ have life in the true sense. This is a truth which cannot be arrived at by intellectual processes. It is a mystery which can only be penetrated by faith.

III. Assuring Them That His Work Was to Continue (vv. 12-14).

Jesus' going away was not to end the work which He had begun. This no doubt means that through the ministry of the spirit-filled disciples the work which He had begun would assume larger proportions. After the Day of Pentecost the Gospel took a much wider range. During His ministry the message was confined to the Jews, while under the ministry of the disciples it was only limited by the world itself. The disciples' ministry was ushered in by the conversion of three thousand in one day.

IV. Promises Another Comforter (vv. 15-17).

The word "comforter" means literally one called to the side of another to give help, protection and deliverance. This comforter was the Holy Spirit. Jesus was the comforter while here in the body. The Holy Spirit was to be another comforter.

V. Assuring Them of His Return to Them (vv. 18-24).

Although Christ went away He did not leave His disciples as orphans. He is spiritually present with them always. The Father and the Son make their abode with the disciples who love and obey Jesus Christ.

VI. Assuring Them That the Holy Spirit Would Aid Them in Remembering and Understanding His Words (vv. 25, 26).

This the Holy Spirit does by illuminating the minds of the disciples.

VII. Giving the Legacy of His Peace (vv. 27-31).

By His peace is meant the serenity of soul which one enjoys who knows that his sins are forgiven.

Dependent Upon God

All men, whether they know it or not, are unconsciously dependent upon God, else no man could live out a day. The religious man is one who is aware of that truth, and who seeks by active choice and will to know and do the will of Him in whose great hand he stands.—Joseph Fort Newton.

Unkind Language

Unkind language is sure to produce the fruits of unkindness, that is, suffering in the bosom of others.

To Ignore the Early Warnings of Kidney Trouble
Is Serious and Often Fatal

ONE'S health depends upon one's kidneys. The kidneys must filter every drop of blood. If they fail to properly do this work, there's a poisoning of the whole system. Then comes backache, dizzy spells, bladder irregularities and loss of vitality. Why wait? Why not use Doan's Pills? Doan's have helped thousands. Ask your neighbor!

An Illinois Case

Wm. Heisler, prop. of shoe store, 521 Main St., Savanna, Ill., says: "My kidneys troubled me and the secretions contained sediment. My back ached severely and a steady pain across my kidneys sapped my strength. I felt out of sorts in general. I used Doan's Pills and they drove away all signs of kidney complaint."

Ancient God of Marriage

Hymen was the god of marriage among the ancient Greeks and Romans. His origin is variously accounted for, but he is generally considered to have been the son of Apollo and Calliope. Other legends, however, make him the son of Dionysus and Aphrodite. Hymen is properly the bridal song personified. He is first mentioned by Sappho, and is represented as a larger and more serious-looking cupid, clad in a golden-hued mantle and carrying a torch and a veil in his hands.—Kansas City Star.

The camel is officiating at his own funeral. He is carrying automobile parts from Aden into the heart of Arabia. For the sheikhs have gone flivver mad. It is said that they do not care much about the make of the motor. They demand luxurious upholsterings on the inside and calico colors on the outside.

When the sheikhs go touring in their gaudy sedans the "floatin', bloatin' cam-u-el" will have his laugh. But the laughs will be on the camel in the end; for, wherever automobiles have gone, they have ultimately become the common carriers.—Los Angeles Times.

Missions, a Debt or a Charity?

By REV. R. H. GLOVER, M. D.
Director of Missionary Course, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—I am debtor both to the Greeks and to the barbarians. . . . So as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are at Rome also.—Rom. 1:14, 15.

In these forcible words the great Apostle Paul expresses his own personal missionary convictions and resolve. He confesses himself the heathen's debtor. He owes them the gospel. Even though he has already done more than any dozen other men of his time, he lays no claims to merit on that account, nor does he consider that he is conferring any favor on the Romans in making an added effort to take to them the gospel. It is his duty, his debt, and he only claims to be an honest man trying to discharge that duty and to pay that debt.

Now if it was for Paul a debt, can it be something less for the rest of us? Yet how few appear to realize and treat it so! The majority of professing Christians regard missions with utter indifference. They appear to wonder by what strange freak of nature a few pious people choose to go and bury themselves among yellow or black folk in other lands rather than to stay at home. They seem to think that missionaries go out to a task which is wholly something of their own predilection.

Moreover, it is to be feared that very many even of those who profess a degree of interest in this work conceive of it at most as a philanthropy, a charity.

Is there any essential difference between regarding missions as a charity and regarding missions as a debt? Missions viewed as a charity become a matter of secondary importance, purely optional, calling forth little concern or prayer or effort, and only spasmodic and insignificant giving. On the other hand, missions viewed as a debt become a primary, obligatory matter, calling for earnest concern and prayer and effort, and for systematic and sacrificing giving.

Charity foots the list of your expenditures and claims your spare cash. Debt heads the list, if you are honest, and cuts out everything nonessential, until it is fully met. You give a little of the interest on your money to charity, but you dip deep down into your principal and give it all, if need be, to pay your debts.

I visited a church and met a number of its leading members, all earning liberal salaries. They possessed real interest in missions and appeared to be well informed. But on inquiry I found that that church was giving the magnificent sum of $25 a year to the missionary cause. I went on from there to a convention, where on missionary day an old colored washerwoman put on the plate as her yearly offering for missions $200 in cash, every cent of it sweated out over the washtub. I asked myself the question: What makes the difference between these two standards of giving? I came to the conclusion that it was simply different viewpoints. The church treated missions as a charity, the woman as a debt, and both gave accordingly. To the church it was only one among a score of equally important (or unimportant!) things; to the washerwoman it was the one supreme thing. They played at missions as a sort of diversion; she worked at missions as the big job of her life.

Christian reader, in which light have you regarded this work—as expressed not by your creed, nor by your enthusiasm after some stirring missionary address, but rather by your actual prayers, and gifts, and efforts to go? Has your conscience been convicted of a debt which you owe to the heathen, or have only your emotions been stirred at times with a weak feeling of pity for them?

May God convict His children of their debt, and make them ready as much as in them is to meet it! Then, at last, will there be no lack of missionaries to go, or intercessors to pray, or money to send.

And may this conviction begin with you!

Have Faith

Learn these two things; never be discouraged because good things get on so slowly here, and never fail fully to do that good which lies next to your hand. Do not be in a hurry, but be diligent. Enter into the sublime patience of the Lord. Be charitable in view of it. God can afford to wait; why cannot we, since we have Him to fall back upon? Let patience have her perfect work, and bring forth her celestial fruits. Trust to God to weave your little thread into a web, though the patterns show it not yet.—George MacDonald.

Sufficient to the Day

Do not look forward to what might happen tomorrow; the same everlasting Father who cares for you today will take care of you tomorrow and every day. Either He will shield you from suffering, or He will give you unfailing strength to bear it. Be at peace then, and put aside all anxious thoughts and imaginations.—Francis de Sales.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

HOW BEARS SLEEP IN WINTER

IN MOST cases, the animal body is the same in structure and workings as the human body. But in some animals there are striking differences that have been developed, owing to the individual characteristics of these animals. The elephant's long trunk, the camel's four stomachs, the absence of a gall bladder in some kinds of deer, the pouch in which the kangaroo carries its young, are some of the most commonly known examples.

While the ordinary processes of breathing, digestion, and circulation of the blood are practically the same in human beings as in animals, there are also some marked differences in some animals in the way in which these bodily functions work. One of the most curious instances of the peculiar habits of some animals is what is known as hibernation; the ability of animals to sleep all winter without food or drink. Everyone knows that this is true. Any schoolboy can tell you that bears, badgers, and groundhogs sleep in caves or nests from the beginning of winter to the beginning of spring, except that the groundhog wakes up and comes out of his hole on February 2, and looks for his shadow, in order to know how much longer the winter is going to last. If you ask him how these animals live during the long winter sleep, he will tell you that they suck their paws.

And the boy will be pretty close to the truth: Some animals have the curious ability of suspending all their bodily activities or at least reducing them to the lowest possible amount, of sleeping all winter and of coming out in the spring as well or perhaps even better than when they went to bed in the fall. There is nothing in the human body or in human ways of living which in any way compares to this animal habit of hibernation.

In a lecture on the subject recently, Doctor Friedmann said that there are two forms of hibernation; the interrupted form, which lasts all winter without a break, and the interrupted form, where the animal wakes and comes out of its hole on warmer days and goes back when it gets cold. Marmots and dormice sleep all winter and will not even wake up when disturbed. Bears, badgers, and skunks will wake up and come out on mild days, or when disturbed, and then go back to sleep again.

This condition is more than sleep. It is unconsciousness. The heart and breathing are slow, the temperature is below normal, the animals do not eat nor drink and there is no elimination.

Doctor Friedmann says these animals have a hibernating gland, which makes it possible for them to slow down their body machine and sleep until circumstances make it possible to resume their activities. Poor old man has no such ability.

SCIENCE AND STYLES

FOR so many years scientific men, especially doctors, have been railing and scolding about women's clothes, that it is both a shock and a pleasure to find eminent scientists approving the present-day styles. Dr. Leonard Hill, director of the National Institute of Medical Research, and one of the leading authorities in England on public health, said recently, in speaking of the value of sunlight in preserving health, that an ideal dress for a woman should have no sleeves and a low neck, should only come to her knees, and that she should wear thin stockings. You can find exactly this costume by the thousands today in every city and town in the country. For once science and styles are agreed.

If Doctor Hill is right, certainly the rising generation of women ought to be the healthiest the world has ever seen. Probably at no time since primitive days have so many women had the advantage of so much sunlight and fresh air on their bodies. Compare the flapper of today with her simple and often single piece of silk underwear, her one-piece dress, loose and hanging from her shoulders and only coming to her knees and her thin silk stockings, with the woman of 25 years ago, stifled in numerous undergarments of starched cotton or wool, from two to five petticoats, a stiff-boned corset, heavy hose or woolen stockings, with woolen sleeves to her wrist and her collar high up under her ears.

What's going to be the difference? We don't know exactly yet, but if there is anything in sunlight and science, there's going to be a lot of difference somewhere.

The surprising thing is that 30 years ago everybody was talking about "dress reform" for women. Today they don't need any reform. But how about men's clothing? It is just the same in general as it was then. High, tight collars up to our ears, not only keep off the sun but also choke and cut off the blood to such brains as we may have. Where women have two thicknesses of thin cloth over their bodies we have at least four. And then we talk about the "stronger sex." It is to laugh.

If men reformed women's clothes in the nineties, it's women's turn now to reform men's. And may they soon do it.

Nature's own body builder

"Six months ago life was unbearable, I was nervous and rundown. No sleep, no appetite. Since taking Tanlac I enjoy steaks, pastries, etc., sleep like a log, gained 10 lbs." Miss Helen Ferry, 1291 N. Broadway, Indianapolis, Ind.

Tanlac is Nature's greatest tonic and builder. Made from roots, barks and herbs after the Tanlac formula, it revitalizes the blood, tones up the digestive organs and puts the whole system in fighting trim.

Don't go about your work sickly and discouraged. Take the example of millions who have been helped by Tanlac. Stop at your druggist's today and get this wonderful tonic. You'll be surprised how quickly you improve. For constipation take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

Piles Disappear Peterson's Ointment

"Please let me tell you," says Peterson, "that for instant relief from the misery of blind, bleeding or itching piles, there is nothing so good as Peterson's Ointment, as thousands have testified." Best for old sores and itching skin. All druggists, 60 cents.

Aspirin Marked With "Bayer Cross" Has Been Proved Safe by Millions.

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 25 years. Say "Bayer" when you buy Aspirin. Imitations may prove dangerous.—Adv.

Too many vacations also break a man's morale.

Thousands of people who are suffering from constipation do not become aware of it until they seek out the cause of their frequent headaches.

"Those bilious headaches can be prevented"

"I know how agonizing they are. For years I was a chronic sufferer.

"And the headaches were not the worst part of it. The strong drugs I used to take to relieve the pain upset my stomach and slowly but surely undermined my general health.

"Finally I found out that my headaches were due to constipation. My doctor advised Nujol. After taking it regularly a few weeks the trouble disappeared.

"Since then I have never had another headache. There is no reason why I should, for the cause has been corrected."

Nujol Corrects Constipation in Nature's Way

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. Nujol simply softens the waste matter and thus permits regular and thorough elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is gentle, safe and natural in its action.

You can take Nujol for any length of time without ill effects.

To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin to enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when elimination is normal and regular.

Says His Prescription Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pain and Twinges---Is Guaranteed

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer in this vicinity that if ALLENRHU, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop all agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment. ALLENRHU has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished even in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of ALLENRHU, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless ALLENRHU decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists everywhere to guarantee it as above in every instance.

JUDGE THE MAN

THE MAN FOR JUDGE RALPH C. AUSTIN CANDIDATE FOR REPUBLICAN NOMINATION FOR COUNTY JUDGE

The COUNTY COURT is the home and family Court. It takes care of neglected and delinquent children, grants mothers pensions, sends the insane, the feeble-minded and the epileptic to hospitals.

The COUNTY COURT enforces the constitutional guarantee of just and lawful taxation on home and property.

EXPERIENCE and FITNESS should be required of the COUNTY JUDGE who looks after the unfortunate children the same as people demand that the teacher who educates their children and the doctor who treats them shall be well trained and thoroughly efficient.

This is the day of experts. Should this not apply to public office as well as to trade, profession or business.

RALPH C. AUSTIN has had fourteen years experience in handling County Court cases. He is regarded by his fellow lawyers as an expert on Special Assessments. He is forty years old and married. He has made a special study of children's cases. Working with a nationally known specialist, Dr. Herman Adler, and with the co-operation of all the heads of children's charities of Will County he has worked out a program for the County Court that will mean the saving of dollars and the reduction of delinquency and crime.
